

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system and method of fetching processor instructions provides enhanced performance. The method and system provide for receiving a request for an instruction, and searching a cache system at a first level for the instruction. The cache system is searched at a second level for the instruction in parallel with the first level based on a prediction of whether the instruction will be found at the first level.

20060101